Fulton, Mo., May 13.—Fulton commission men have begun to buy wool for this season but the receipts so far have been light, due to the cool weather.

One dealer estimated that not more than one-half of the sheep have been shorn but that with the approach of warm weather the work will be pushed. The wool buying season will continue until well into June as the sellers bring in their wool in straggling fashions. At present 2 cents a pound is being paid for the wool, which is a better price than last year. It has been pronounced in good shape. Some goat hair also has been marketed and this likewise has been pronounced fine. Three Fulton dealers are buying wool this season.

Outlook For Horse Breeding.

During the past few weeks I have noticed a number of articles appearing in The Gazette in regard to the large number of horses being purchased for service in the European war. It is claimed by some authorities that the number of horses already purchased is hardly sufficient to be seriously felt. However, it should be borne in mind that a great proportion of these were mares. Therefore our farmers should not lose sight of the fact that much damage may be done by the exportation of mares suitable for breeding purposes. In view of the shortage in desirable brood mares, which may result sooner or later, it is my opinion that they represent a very valuable asset for the farmer at the present time and he should feel reluctant to allow such animals to pass out of his possession.

It does not seem unreasonable to conclude that if the foreign governments have already found it necessary to buy many horses and transport them at great expense the demand for them later will be even more constant than on the horses of this country as long as the conflict continues, but that at its close Russia will probably be the only country engaged in the war that will not have to depend largely on the United States for horses for industrial and breeding purposes.

In my judgment horse breeding now presents unusual opportunities for the farmer. By keeping his desirable brood mares and breeding them to purebred stallions of merit and known value as sires the crops raised each year will not only make him independent of the rising market for his own work horses, but he will also be in a position to supply to those who have sacrificed a most essential and valuable asset for the farm. W. Warren Co., Va.—Joseph N. Hornbaker, "Breeder's Gazette."

Manhattan, Kas., May 13.—The Hessian fly has damaged Kansas wheat to the extent of at least 10,000,000, according to an estimate which George A. Dean, state entomologist, regards as conservative.

The eastern half of Kansas and the northern part of Oklahoma are generally infested with the pest. The south central part of Kansas is hard hit. Summer, Reno and adjoining counties are located in the central part of the most seriously affected area.

The blame for the condition, the experts say, lies with the farmers, who neglected to put into practice the methods of control advocated by the entomologists. Government entomologists and county demonstration agents warned the farmers last year of the danger, but few of them responded.

In counties where demonstration agents were able to persuade the farmers to adopt general and co-operative precautions, the wheat crop is practically immune. Leavenworth, Miami and Allen counties, though surrounded by infested areas, are practically clean, through the general methods of control urged by the county demonstration agents.

"Absolutely nothing can be done for the infested crops now," says Professor Dean.

In his opinion the ravages of the insects cannot be checked this year in the infested area.

J. A. Given out in New Hope neighborhood, has two acres of wheat almost completely eaten up by the chinch bugs. This is said to be one of the worst affected fields in the county.

There are 26 fruit packing schools in British Columbia.

Omaha, Neb., May 15.—A shipment of 619 lambs, average, 78 pounds, from Scotts Bluff, Neb., Friday sold here for $11.50 a hundred, the highest price ever paid for woolen lambs on a Missouri River market.

THE Hessian fly is destroying the wheat crop in spots, and farmers are very uneasy about the outcome.

Jack See, who resides on a farm east of this city, says that he has a cow on his farm which gives 108 lbs. of milk each day, and if any one is inclined to doubt this statement he has the privilege of visiting his place at milking time. This is certainly a fine cow, and it beats that Fulton Holstein bull—Montgomery Standard.

Frank Ruse, a well known farmer near this city, says there is quite a little Hessian fly in his wheat.

Geo. Kunkel has at his store an egg with a tail on one end. The question now arises for the curious delirious, "Which end of an egg hatches the tail?"

W. H. Cornelius, the Auxvasse wool buyer, sold a quantity of the staple Tuesday to S. P. Emmons, of Mexico. He shipped out a car load Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. H. Norton killed a jointed snake about three feet long at her home Friday morning. She was working in the yard and struck the snake with a rake, and true to its name, the snake broke into about two dozen pieces—Troy Free Press.

You may not believe this story, but it comes straight, and the Forum will vouch for its truthfulness.

N. Gray, who lives south and west of the south of Mrs. James Duvall of Kentucky, who occurred last Saturday morning. She was buried at Rising Star Church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Duvall was Miss Annie Lewis of Long Branch and for several years lived in that neighborhood before moving to Litchley. We extend sympathy to the relatives and friends.

Mrs. Kate Piche and son, Ed, and wife attended the funeral—Last Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Schieffer were visited by their sons, Mrs. Charles Locke, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chester and two little daughters of Hamilton, Moers, Pierce and Carpenter motored to Mexico last Sunday—Dr. Flynn and daughter and Robert Miller and daughter attended the Sunday School Convention at Liberty M. E. Church, Sunday—G. T. Schieffer sold W. W. Mundy 17 head of sheep at 4 1/2 and 5 1/2 a pound.

Nolan Huddleston, three miles north of Auxvasse, bought eighteen 140-pound stock hogs one day last week from his brother, Wilmer C. Huddleston, six miles southeast of Auxvasse—Fulton Gazette.

Harry F. Henderson, three miles southeast of Auxvasse, had a splendid wool mule one day last week. Death is supposed to have been caused by blood poisoning.

Marylin Snyder, of Santa Fe, was in this city, Saturday, and says there is little talk about the chinch bug or Hessian fly in his section.

Joe Muegler says the chinch bugs are bothering the late wheat and the oats in his section but the early wheat promises to escape. He reports crops and grain as being excellent in his section. So far no Hessian fly has appeared out that way.

Centralia, Ill., May 14.—Wheat prospects in this part of Southern Illinois are encouraging, according to reports from bankers to letters of inquiry sent out by a Centralia bank as to whether there has been any damage to the wheat from the Hessian fly.

Reports from parts of Washington County are the most discouraging. As there will be a great deal of damage there from the fly, as there is already on the Hoyerland prairie and in the vicinity of New Minden.

The Hessian fly has been less active near Irvington, Ill., as compared with Hoyerland prairie; however, it is doing some damage in a few fields, but as yet not to a very great extent.
